National Corporate Housing has expanded its brand internationally to meet customer and market demands.

National Corporate Housing has expanded its brand internationally to meet customer and market demands. According to Martha Wiley, Regional Vice President of National, "We have been asked by several current customers to handle projects in areas such as Doha, Qatar, Angola and Abu Dhabi."

In addition to offering outstanding customer service, excellent product quality and superior value, National offers its clients customized packages. They realize that no two clients are alike. National partners with their clients by getting to know the intricate needs of each company/partner so that they can deliver the type of high-level service National's clients have come to expect. National Corporate Housing is quickly developing the reputation for being the most responsive corporate housing company in the United States," says Tom Atchison, President of National Corporate Housing.

National Corporate Housing will continue to operate their successful United States branches while focusing on the expansion of serviced apartments for business and leisure travelers internationally. "We will continue to add properties to our current portfolio and real time booking tool on our website as our clients have the need," mentioned Cinda Rodewald, Vice President of Marketing for National.
